ABSTRACT

This workbook contains ten short stories by modern masters aimed at young adult readers, with each story followed by a concise lesson on a basic element of literature (such as plot, setting, or mood) clearly illustrated in the story. Some of the authors represented in the book are John Updike, Isaac Bashevis Singer, Carson McCullers, and Ray Bradbury. Practice exercises demonstrating the element of literature discussed, multiple choice comprehension questions, discussion guides, and writing exercises follow each story. Answer keys and charts to record progress in comprehension are appended. (RS)
